Water resistance

Water resistance is measured in "millimetre water column pressure". Water column pressure is measured by placing a water-filled tube on top of the textile, so that a textile with a water resistance of 5.000 mm will keep the water out from a tube that is 5 metres (= 5000 mm) tall. A textile with a water resistance of 10.000 mm can handle a 10 metre (10.000 mm) tall water-filled tube etc.

Breathability

MTV indicates a membrane's breathability. The MTV value is an expression for the amount of water vapour that can evaporate through one square metre of membrane in 24 hours. A product with a breathability of 5.000 can "breathe" 5000 gram (= 5 litre) of water vapour per square metre in 24 hours.
